Lyrical, compassionate and nuanced, Purple Hibiscus finds a towering contemporary writer at the peak of her powers. The limits of fifteen-year-old Kambili's world are defined by the high walls of her family estate and the dictates of her fanatically religious father. Her life is regulated by schedules: prayer, sleep, study, prayer.

Purple Hibiscus explores the topics of religious oppression and domestic abuse excellently. Its characters are vivid, and there's enough humour in between all the seriousness. This was such an emotional story with interesting plot twists to keep the reader captivated, I really enjoyed it.
